HOIHOW NOTES.

(From Our Oven Correspondent.)

Homow, July 5. "With cholora in Holhow, pirates numerous on the surrounding waters, robbers operating in different places in the interior, and a heated term which has caused a fear of famine in many places, it cannot be said that the Island of Hainan is the most desirable place to live in just at

The members of the American Presby terian Mission bave just returned from their annual meeting, held this year at Nodos, a place, about 70 miles south west "of Heihow. They re ort that the accounts given "show very satisfactory progress in their work in all parts of Hainau, in spite of the overturning that the local government has had during the last year, and the anarchy that has existed, and still shows in different parts of Hainam. For in-tance only ten miles from Wodom, they say, is a robber camp where a proper military organization is kept up and from which the robbers go out in difforent directions to levy nesessments on the unprotested villagers. The poorest are expected to pay something, while wealthy men must give hundreds of dollars, or be held for musing in the robber's camp. In another district south of Hojhow the aboriging have been brought out from the interior to take part in a local feud. Soldiers have been sent from here to quell this disturbance, but it is doubtful if peace as be restored and the wild men of the mountains sent home without

No one can tell just how much oholera there is here; but from the cases that have come under the attention of foreigners, it seems that the epidemic has seemed a pary vinlent form with those who are attroked. There have been local rains, and in spite of the interned heat of the last month, the. rion crop which is just ripening is promoranded in thest places to be good.

We hear that our local government lisa received money to pay its troops, and therefore hope that few will be lemined to don't and joint tobler bands, and that pelore oug we may have the stelling proposed to de he sandant of the Revolution.

NEWS FROM HOME.

(From Our Own Correspondent) LONDON, June 15. THE NEW WAR MINISTER.

The appoin ment of Colonal Seely to be Minister of War in succession to Lord Haldane may be criticised in some quarters, but none can gainesy that the new minists is a man of rare charm. Moreover as he has a majority of some four thousand to fall back upon in his constituency, it may be taken for granted that he will not be urned out even in these dull days for Liberal candidates.

His selection will result in what is, so far as 1 know, an unprecedented event-in the forthcoming army manocuvicy. commands the Hampshire Carbineers, one of the regiments of yeomanry that will take part with the regulars in the manoeuvres. It will surely be an unparalled event in our records if the Secretary for War does duty as a regimental colonel.

can no longer ments are not - wause a civilian is at "the the War Office. For Colonel Seely has not only seen active service THE HONGKONG AND KOWLOON against the Boers, but is a thorough going and that is that if Russia and Japan refuse soldier. Indeed he won a sest in the to join, the other four Powers may be able House for the Isle of Wight for the Conservatives during the war-or rather his wife did for him, for she went up and Two Brick Godowns with corrugated down the constituency with the appeal to the electors-" My Jack is lighting for you. You must fight here at home for

The service has not yet realised the great. services performed by the retiring Minister for the Army-though that will come in time. But all reformers have had wait for the reco, mition of their labours. Anyway the army will more quickly appreciate the good intentions of the new chief, since he is one of the themselves. Incidentally I may mention that Colonel Seely has other claims to the red badge of courage besides service on land, for he was a long ago awarded the medal of the Royal Humase Society for saving life at yea.

CHINAMEN IN TROUBLE. At the Central Criminal Court this week four Chinamen who seriously injured Ala Loy in a tong feud in the East End came up for sentence. The prosecuting counse said the prosecutor went in fear of his life for he belonged to the rival society to that of the prisoners and he was convinced that £200 had been offered to some Chinese in Shanghai to come ever and kill him. The smoking and gambling, while the prosecutor's society had a pronounced dislike to these forms of vice. On the counsel for the defence undertaking to have the men sent out of the country the Recorder said the tickets must be produced next day so that the country might be rid of the prisoners without de-THE CHINESE LOAN.

The Manchaster Guardian says-" The position" about the £60,000,000 Chinese 849 lebabilitation loss is now worse than everand I learn to-day in an influential quarter that there is no hope of an parly D agreement hotween the representatives of the bunking groups of the aix powers concerned. forleed with is doubtful if the representatives of the air Powers will ever find a common basis of agreement. The matter has become more diplomatic than commercial or financial, and the bankers repre-entatives are understood to be in consultation with their respective

A meeting took place last week in R London, but it was almost formal, as the Japanious representative, M. Terauchi, was still awaiting hat uctions from Takio. M. Maurico Verstracte, the Russian reprezent. stive, stated that he was prepared to modify certain of the restrictions for the expenditure of the loan which he had pur forward at the three days? conference three weeks ago. It may as well be stated that it is the Japanese who are proving the stumbling block to the successful conclusion of the loan. The first cause of the deadlock at the conference was the demand of M. Verstracte that it should be made a condition of the loan that none of it was to be expended for any purpose which might prejudice Russian interests in Mongolia.

Japan strongly supported this, and also wished for the insertion of a safeguard against any of the loan being used in such a way as might prejudice Japan's special interests in Manchuria. M. Verstraete withdraw some of his demands, but there does not seem to be any possibility of Japan withdrawing hers.

Japan has throughout the nego istions played a very subtle game. When it seemed probable that a large loan would be granted by the four Powers originally concerned - Great Britain France, Germany, and the United States-"Japan pub" in a claim and induced Russia to join her for inclusion in the group. Since then she has been the chief obstacle in the way of the negociations. Powerfu influences, partly inspired by Japan, are at work in Peking to prevent the success of the loan. There is just one probability, to see their way to the grant of a large loan. The United States representatives have very few qualms about the risk of granting China a loan, and they have the full sympathy of Mr Knox, the American Secretary of State, and Mr Taft, both of whom are deeply interested in the question of China and are very anxious to spread American influence there.

WOMAN'S UTOPIA. In the early antumn there is to be established not far from London on six thousand acres of land a woman's farmcolony to be financed, administered and worked entirely by women. It will be superintended by a woman farmer of many years experience and will train women for agricultural pursuits at home and abroad. The cynics declare the idea is utopian and that the women will disagree within a month, but the promoters smile serencly and say they are out to allow their mottle and will win through to respect and independence.

ROYAL TOUR FOR PRINCES. I hear that the king has decided on a round the world for the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert. His Majes'y regards the educational value of the trip he himself took as having been of the highest possible order in equipping him for the work he now has to do, and has long had in his mind a similar experience for his successor: prisoners were members of the White Lily | But it is only since he returned from India Society, which was in favour of opium that he had reduced the idea to anything like definiteness. Even now the plans are not advanced. The late Spring is provisionally fixed for the start. By that time the Prince of Wales will have spent two terms at Oxford and Prince 'Albert will have served a period of active duty at sea. This plan adds sig ificance to a remark of the Duke of Connaught, at a public function in Canada some time a s from the Dominion at no very distant date. The Prince goes into re-idence at Oxford in October and for the first time will bays a smart automobile of his owh. Motoring is a pastime that now appeals to him strongly siries he took a long tour brough provincial France - by far the pleasantest part of the French stay to this quiet, simple minded English youth.

Houghorg, April 17, 1912

Not only has he had his portrait painted for his mother while in Paris, but he sent Priness Mary recently a jewelled watch for her tifteenth birthday. then she had never worn jewellery, except a plain row of tendso On that birthday however her mother removed the regulation and made up for past. firmness by adding to the Prince's present a "beautiful chain of pearls. These two articles of jewellery are all the ornaments the Princess will wear for a long ting to come. Our Royal family is certainly setting an example for simplicity and the domestic virtues. Even the racier widows whose names were constantly in the mouths of the Smart Set a year or two ago are now going round looking demure and prim, such is the glacial touch that has fallen on the unduly merry nowadays. KING EDWARD'S BIOGRAPHY. ward, contributed to the National Dictionary of Biography by Sir Sidney Lee, has r used many and various opinious. Most of us think it is a fine piece of work, relieved of the sychophancy of the ordin ary writer of royal records, and presenting the beloved monarch as a human being and man of the world that we presume he would have liked to be considered. But others, including the Daily Telegraph, hink the veil has been "rudely torn aside and common people allowed to peep into a sanctum that no ordinary mortals should have seen. Very likely to these critics the offence is that Sir Sidney

But one of the matters touched on that have roused more than ordinary interest is a quotation from his late Majesty's letter in condemnation of gambling. This letter first appeared a dozen years ago, when King Edward was still Prince of Wales; in an authorised "Life of Archbishop Benson" and its publication was widely regarded at the time as an indiscretion, especially in view of the fact that no explanation of the circumstances which called it forth was given in the book It was written just after the trial in the summer of 1890 of what was known as the Tranby Croft baccarat scandal, in which Si-William Gordon Cumming was the plaintiff and the late Mr Arthur" Wilson one of the defendants. The then Prince of Wales recorded in this letter that no one regretted the trial more than himself. but that he was powerless to prevent it and it is, of course, remembered that he nd the others concerned in that notoriourain's of baccarat, at which he held the ank and played with his own counters, -igned a paper among themselves containing a pledge not to rereal the allegation o chesting that had been made in its course. By some unknown means the secret was revealed, and the interest of the letter to many to-day lies in the fact that one or two newspapers were able to print a paragraph t the time stating "the Prince of Wales. 'cels keenly certain of the criticisms passed by the press upon his connection with the I'maby Croft baccarat scandal. One comment, in particular, appears to his Royal Highness and his immediate friends to be unduly harsh and uncalled for, and that is the one which suggested that, as he lone of the signatories of the now historic paper was that saked in the witness box whether he had betrayed the secret, it was either he who had done so or that one of the others had committed perjury: His Royal Highness without, of course, accepting the second alternative, absolutely denies the first." . Afterwards, through a private source he expressed his pleasure that this statement had been made

His idea was for a long time that he was the best abused man among Low Churchmen and Nonconformists. It has not been for that that Sir Edward Clarke list not been given the office he held at the time of the Tranby Croft trial. while it was King Edward himself who nitimately admitted him to the high honour of a Privy Coun illorship, which he still enjoys.

EXERCISE AND BEALTH.

The Efficacy of Golf.

Although this article will be chiefly "concorned with the subjects of muscular exercise and fatigue in their relation to health, yet it may aptly commegge with a more generalised consideration of "exercise" than a study of muscular action alone

In a state of health, and in order to maintain that state, every organ of the body requires that it should perform a certain amount of work for which it is adapted-it should exert its functions up to a certain degree, Each and every organ should receive exercise in its allotted task in the busy system of the human economy more should be submitted to prolonge periods of over-exertion or developed tothe minimising of, the functions of others. A healthy man is one in whom every gland, every perve-cell, every variety of tissue, in short, performs amoderate tlegree of exer cise, and in whom their activities are recuperated by an adequate supply of foed and needful amount of rest. RODERATION THE K YNOTE.

The athlete of to day, delighting in his physical prowess and abnormal muscular development, is cultivating a raised blood pressure to the detriment of his arteries inducing an advance in age exceeding his longerity as measured by the spanish freare. The sedentary student, seeking his pleasure in the conquest of problems perplexing to the mind, will dim the brightness of his intelligence by paying no heed to the nocessity of exercising his mapeles. If these are not used the circulation is deprived of a valuable adjunct in grounding the flow of blood in the veins, waste products are not so quickly bealt with, oxygen? cation is lessened, and the Openin-cells will not receive such a healthy supply of rich arterial thood as their nourishment d mands. Each of these examples will play penalty in its own way; a penalty induced by over-development on the one hand and neglect on the other.

Using the word exercise in its using acceptance as indicating muscular efforts, it may be stated that a certain daily imount should be taken for the maintenance of health, and that moderationauited to the physique of the individualshould be the keynote to the extent to which it should be indulged. Avoidance of any marked fatigue will form a useful guide to the majority of persons.

. CAUSE OF PARGUE.

The symptoms of fatigue are sufficiently well known-the aching of the muscles and desire for sleep -- but the causes of the condition have been difficult to clucidate, and are not yet settled in some of their details. During exertion various substances are formed and set free in the blood; while they are there we feel tired; after they are climi ated we feel refreshed. It has been shown by experiment that if blood from an an mal fatigued by exception is introduced into the circula ibn of a normal one, the latter exhibits all the charact teristae symptoms of faligae funtil it has rid itself of the substances introduced. To the test of the chemist a normal muscle Sives an alkaline reaction; not so the museles of an animal, such his a fex or hare, that his been hunted todenth, for in there cases the reaction is acid-that is in the opposite direction-chemically. The acid formed by the muscles when "they ach which causes this p'enmenon, is known as sereolactic acid. . Other substainces are also formed, of which at present we have no accurate knowle 'ge of he composition, When one feels one's muscles aching after prolonged exertion, it would be untural to think that they themselves are the tired members. Yet the deduction would not be correct, for the muscles have been proved by physiologists definitely not to be the seat of fatigue to any great extent. Nor is it in the narver that transmits the commands of the brain to the muscle, causing it to contract, that we must bok for the sent of the tirgdness. The real place is found to exist where the nerve terminates in the musele, spreading out into what is called an endplate; it is here where the fatigue is made manaifest.

The products formed by muscles during exertion may be looked spon as injurious to the system. One such effect, and no important one in the state of fatigue, i their action on the brain and spinal cord. whoreby the power of the shighest partions of the nervous system to send out impulses causing the muscles to not is much diminished. In some diseases of the nervous system, as, for emuple, locomotor ataxia, it is very important for the rationt to avoid latigue as from walking too far.

WALKING EXERCISE.

The power to stand upright, to walk or to run is the result of the most delicate balancing or co-ordination, of our voluncontracts to perform an action is opposed, to a ceriain extent, by an antagonistic muecle acting in the opposite direction. When you'ext ad your arm pleying golf in order to make a stroke them seles tending to bond it in an opposite way are also not ing. Conversely, if the muscles which straighten the hand in a line with the fire arm hre paralysed, it is impossible to give an effective grip with those which clench the fingers and bond the wrist, alilior of these "flexor" - muscles, "which nie directly opposed to the paralysed group, may be perfectly healthy. The pranciple has Begg called "no operative antagonism?" by it we see that if we exercise one group of muscles we shall also, to a lesser extent. exercise an opposing group. And here lies the value of walking as exercise, where more groups are combined in action than a any other form. Hence go'f is a valuable recreation to recommend to those whom we wish to give general exercise; the muscles of the body, not unduly exerted, yet suffbrought into activity, while simultaneous y the mind is absorbed by the interest in the course of the game, and not sulijected to the monotony of walking for "walking's sake."-"The Standard."

A Working Housewife

Nervous Depression, Neuralgia. Sleeplessness—

A cheerful, bright way of looking at things, a brisk activity which easily enables her to do almost as much as two ordinary persons, are some of the immediate benefits Mrs. Parker derived from Phosferine. Like most hard-working mothers, Mrs. Parker never found time to look after herself, and, as is a ways the case, suddenly broke down under the strain of endless liousehold activities. Sulden noises caused her to tremble in feeble distress, gloony, fears assailed her, neuralgia and sleeplessness tortural her nerves relegillessly, and it was from this depth of misery that Phosferine raised Mrs. Parker. That this immediate effect was achieved by two doses of Phosferine, and Mrs. Parker's cure made permanent by a continuance of the tonic, demonstrates that with the aid of Phosferine any husband can save his wife from innumerable distresses.

Positively Cured and Prevented.

Mrs. A. Parker, 3. Linden Grove, Numbead, writes :- "I got into a fearfully low nervous state through working too hard and overtaxing my strength. Any loud noise or a sharp knock at the door would throw me into a state of trembling and helplessness. I was always imagining all kinds of evils, and worrying about trifles. Neuralgia racked me with pain day and night, and prevented me from obtaining any rest. I got so-worn and dejected that I could have cried, out of sheer misery. My husband persuaded me at last to take some Phosterine, and the effect was simply marvellous; the pains not only ceased, but I have had no return since .. It seemed more like magic than anything else that afew drops of Phosferine could produce such a change. I kept on with it, and I began to gain strength; the neuralgit disappeared for good, the nervousness, dejection, and worry left me, and now I feel quite well."-Nov. 17, 1911."

LASCAR SEAMEN.

The recent great disaster, says the St. James's Gazette," has focussed public attention on ships and the seamen. AUTHORISED CAPITAL ... Yen 48,000,000.00 Much good may result from this. On the other hand, the craze for the sensational in nautical matters has already resulted in a great deal of base coin passing as current. Wild statements and unbalanced strictures have obtained the wildest eredence. One of the most persistent of these (arising out of Oceana tragedy) is that the lascar seaman is not worthy of his place under the red cusign. It is said that he is cowardly, incompetent, treacherous: that time of danger he hinders, by his frantic and undisciplined obstruction, any effort of those others of the crew who may keep their heads and strive to carry on. There is a certain, amount of truth in this, sufficient to justify a rejoinder, and it is only common fairness to try to apportion just how much, of this alleged cowardice, and incompetence lies in the Deposits' received for fixed periods at man himself, and how much more brought about by the conditions of ser vice and the system under which he is engaged. Most of these native seamen come from the Malabar coast. They are, of the same race and caste that is so much drawn on by the Indian Government as suitable recruits for the native army and police forces. In these ser-£1,500,000 vices, under real and efficient guidance by white officers, they have an excellent £ 582,500 character, and have proved their courage £ $65 000 and loyalty. It is always fine weather in the shipping office at Bembay or Calcutta, where he takes engagement, and, generally, he has but a hazy idea of where his "touching the pen " will lead him to. If the Indian Government exercised more stringent supervision of the nature of the voyages and suitability of ships carrying lascar crews there would be less salk of cowardice and incompetence. great deal might also, be done in pre venting the "wholesale engagement wastrols.
